DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's Amendment filed on 02/07/2005 has been entered. No claims have been amended. No claims have been cancelled. No claims have been added. Claims 1-13 are still pending in this application, wherein claims 1 and 6 being independent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yasuda et al (US Pat No. 5,062,132), herein after referred as Yasuda.

Regarding claim 1, referring to Figs 1 and 3, Yasuda teaches in a short-range mobile communication system for communicating through a selected radio link between a master (e.g., cordless handset 1A) and at least one slave (e.g., cordless handset 1B), a method for fast transmission of data stored in a memory of the master (e.g., cordless handset 1A) to the slave (e.g., cordless handset 1B) through the selected radio link (e.g., radio link via interface units 11A and 11B), comprising the steps of:

requesting transmission of data stored in the memory of the master (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30);

establishing a selected radio link between the master and the slave in response to the request for transmission of data (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30);

transmitting indexing information related to the kinds of data stored in the memory of the master through the selected radio link (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30);

transmitting data corresponding to the indexing information selected to the slave through the radio link (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30);

Regarding claim 2, Yasuda teaches the method for fast transmission of data as recited in claim 1, further comprising the step of sending a message requesting transmission of data to a control unit of the master, and transmitting data stored in the memory of the master to the slave through the selected radio link in response to the request message (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30).

Regarding claim 3, Yasuda teaches the method for fast transmission of data as recited in claim 1, wherein the indexing information includes the size, title, and numbering of data stored in the memory of the master (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30).

Regarding claim 4, Yasuda teaches the method for fast transmission of data as recited in claim 1, further comprising decoding data in the slave and outputting data that is received through the selected radio link (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30).

Regarding claim 5, Yasuda teaches the method for fast transmission of data as recited in claim 1, wherein the selected radio link is one of infrared communication link being capable of high speed data transmission (see figs 1 and 3; and col. 1, ln 62-col. 2, ln 11; and col. 4, ln 8-col. 5, ln 30).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claims 6-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yasuda (US Pat No. 5,062,132), in view of Nakajima et al (US Pat No. 5,940,769), herein after referred as Nakajima.

As to claims 6-13, Yasuda teaches the invention substantially as claimed that previously cited in the rejection of claims 1-5 above, with the exception of providing the feature of decoding voice data or low speed data when the selected radio link is a low speed radio link for transmitting voice data or low speed data; and high speed data when the selected radio link is a high speed radio link for transmitting high speed data. However, Nakajima teaches the feature of decoding voice data or low speed data when the selected radio link is a low speed radio link for transmitting voice data or low speed data; and high speed data when the selected radio link is a high speed radio link for transmitting high speed data (see Fig 15 and col. 15, Ins 14-23). Therefore, integrating Nakajima's teachings into communication system of Yasuda would have been obvious for fast and accurately transmitting the data to an information seeker and enabling the information seeker to understand the received data.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
